

Data Subject Access Requests

This training module covers what a Data Subject Access Request (or DSAR) or a request made by an individual for a copy of their personal data held by you is.

Demands for DSARs are increasing, and a study from The DPO Centre revealed that 6 million UK adults have thought about submitting one. Responding to these can be costly and time consuming but ignoring the request, or getting your response wrong, can result in costly penalties for the business – both financially and reputationally. This module will help you manage these risks.

DSARs

What we cover:

- What a DSAR is
- How long you have to respond
- How and where to search for personal data
- The consequences of failing to comply with a DSAR.
